1 Plaintiff Affiliated Foods, Inc. (“Plaintiff”), by and through undersigned counsel,
2 complains as follows:

3 NATURE OF THE CASE

4 1. This action arises from a conspiracy to raise, fix, stabilize, or maintain prices,
5 allocate customers, and restrict capacity in the market for shelf-stable packaged seafood,
6 including tuna, clam, crab, mackerel, oyster, salmon, sardines, and shrimp (“Packaged Seafood”)
7 sold in the United States, from at least as early as January 1, 2000, through the present (the 8 “Relevant Period”), by Defendants Tri-Union Seafoods, LLC, d/b/a Chicken of the Sea, King
9 Oscar, Inc., Bumble Bee Foods, LLC f/k/a Bumble Bee Seafoods, LLC, and StarKist Co.
10 (collectively, “Defendants”).

11 2. Plaintiff brings this action to (i) recover treble damages, attorneys’ fees, litigation
12 expenses, and court costs, and (ii) secure injunctive relief for violations of Section 1 of the 13 Sherman Act of 1890 (“Sherman Act”), 15 U.S.C. § 1, pursuant to Sections 4 and 16 of the 14 Clayton Act of 1914 (“Clayton Act”), 15 U.S.C. §§ 15 and 26.

15 3. As alleged more fully below, by early 2000, growth in the Packaged Seafood
16 industry had slowed, and the prospects for growth were dim. Beginning at least as early as 17 January 2000, in an effort to combat the prospect of diminishing profits, Defendants and their co-18 conspirators conspired to raise, fix, stabilize, or maintain prices, allocate customers, and restrict 19 capacity in the market for Packaged Seafood sold in the United States. As a direct and proximate
20 result of Defendants’ cartel activities, Plaintiff was overcharged by Defendants for Packaged 21 Seafood.

22 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

23 4. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this action pursuant to 24 Section 4(a) and 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 15(a) and 26, and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 25 1337.

26 5. Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in conduct both inside and outside
27 the United States that caused direct, substantial, and reasonably foreseeable and intended
28 anticompetitive effects upon interstate commerce within the United States, and upon import trade

1 and commerce with the United States.

2 6. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to Sections 4(a) and 12 of the Clayton Act,
3 15 U.S.C. §§ 15(a) and 22, and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391 (b), (c), and (d), because a substantial part of 4 the events giving rise to Plaintiff's claims occurred in this district, a substantial portion of the 5 affected interstate trade and commerce discussed below has been carried out in this district, and 6 one or more Defendants reside, are found, have agents, are licensed to do business, are doing
7 business, or transact business in this district.

8 7. This Court has in personal jurisdiction over each Defendant because, inter alia,
9 each Defendant: (a) transacted business in the United States, including in this district; (b) directly 10 or indirectly sold or marketed substantial quantities of Packaged Seafood throughout the United 11 States, including in this district; (c) had substantial aggregate contacts with the United States as a 12 whole, including in this district; or (d) was engaged in an illegal price-fixing conspiracy that was 13 directed at, and had a direct, substantial, reasonably foreseeable, and intended effect of causing 14 injury to, the business or property of persons and entities residing in, located in, or doing business
15 throughout the United States, including in this district.

16 PARTIES

17 A. Plaintiff

18 7. Plaintiff Affiliated Foods, Inc. is a Texas corporation with its principal place of 19 business in Amarillo, Texas. Plaintiff is a wholesale grocery and restaurant supply company.
20 During the Relevant Period, Plaintiff purchased Packaged Seafood directly from one or more
21 Defendants, and has been injured in its business or property by reason of the antitrust violations 22 alleged in this complaint.

23 B. Defendants

24 8. Defendant Tri-Union Seafoods, LLC, d/b/a Chicken of the Sea International 25 ("COTS") is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 4510 Executive Drive,
26 # 3, San Diego, CA 92121.

27 9. Defendant King Oscar, Inc. ("KOI") is a Delaware corporation with its principal 28 place of business at 3838 Camino Del Rio North, Suite 115, San Diego, CA 92108.

1 10. Defendants COTS and KOI (together, “Tri-Union”) are wholly-owned subsidiaries
2 of Thai Union Frozen Products Public Company, Ltd. (“Thai Union”), a publicly held company
3 headquartered in Thailand.

4 11. Defendant Bumble Bee Foods, LLC, f/k/a Bumble Bee Seafoods, LLC (“Bumble
5 Bee”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 9655 Granite Ridge Drive,
6 Suite 100, San Diego, CA 92123. Bumble Bee is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Lion Capital, a
7 private investment firm headquartered in Great Britain.

8 12. Defendant StarKist Co. (“StarKist”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal
9 place of business at 225 North Shore Drive, Suite 400, Pittsburgh, PA 15212. StarKist is a 10 wholly-owned subsidiary of Dongwon Enterprises Co., which is headquartered in Korea.

11 13. Defendants and their co-conspirators directly and through their affiliates sold
12 Packaged Seafood in the United States and in this district at artificially inflated prices during the 13 Relevant Period. Defendants are direct competitors in the United States Packaged Seafood 14 market.

15 AGENTS AND CO-CONSPIRATORS

16 14. Each Defendant acted as the principal of, or agent for, all other Defendants with 17 respect to the acts, violations, and common course of conduct described in this complaint.

18 15. Various other persons, firms, companies, and corporations not named as 19 Defendants have knowingly and willingly conspired with Defendants, and performed acts and 20 made statements in furtherance of the conspiracy and in furtherance of the anticompetitive 21 conduct.

22 16. The acts alleged to have been done by any Defendant or co-conspirator were 23 authorized, ordered, or done by its directors, officers, managers, agents, employees, or 24 representatives while actively engaged in the management, direction, or control of such 25 Defendant’s or co-conspirator’s affairs.

26 INTERSTATE TRADE AND COMMERCE

27 17. Defendants Tri-Union, Bumble Bee, and StarKist are the leading manufacturers of 28 Packaged Seafood sold in the United States.

1 18. The referenced Packaged Seafood products are produced by Defendants or their 2 affiliates in either the United States or overseas.

3 19. During the Relevant Period, Tri-Union, Bumble Bee, and StarKist, directly or 4 through one or more of their affiliates, sold Packaged Seafood throughout the United States in a 5 continuous and uninterrupted flow of interstate commerce, including through and into this judicial 6 district.

7 20. The activities of Defendants and their co-conspirators were within the flow of, and 8 intended to, and did, have a substantial effect on interstate commerce in the United States.

9 21. Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct, including the marketing and sale
10 of Packaged Seafood, took place within, and has had, and was intended to have, a direct, 11 substantial, and reasonably foreseeable anticompetitive effect upon interstate commerce within 12 the United States and upon import commerce with foreign nations.

13 22. The restraints alleged in this complaint have directly and substantially affected
14 interstate commerce in that Defendants have deprived Plaintiff of the benefits of free and open
15 competition in the purchase of Packaged Seafood within the United States.

16 23. Defendants' agreement to inflate, fix, raise, maintain, or artificially stabilize prices
17 of Packaged Seafood, and their actual inflating, fixing, raising, maintaining, or artificially
18 stabilizing Packaged Seafood prices, were intended to have, and had, a direct, substantial, and 19 reasonably foreseeable effect on United States commerce and on import trade and commerce with 20 the United States.

21 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

22 A. Background

23 24. Packaged Seafood is composed of raw seafood that is processed to preserve and 24 enhance flavor, and ensure product safety. Because it is typically caught far offshore, raw seafood 25 is usually delivered to canneries frozen or refrigerated.

26 25. Upon delivery to a processing plant, an initial quality control inspection is 27 performed to ensure the seafood was stored and transported at the proper temperature and is in 28

1 acceptable condition. The seafood is maintained at temperatures ranging from 0°Celsius to -18°C
2 until processing. Seafood passing the initial quality control inspection is prepared for packaging.

3 26. Accepted seafood is initially transferred to large ovens for “pre-cooking.” After 4 further cleaning, the seafood is fed into filling machines where product packages (either cans,
5 pouches, or cups) are filled with pre-set amounts. Filled packages are moved to sealing machines
6 where they are closed and sealed.

7 27. Each package is affixed with a permanent production code identifying plant,
8 product, date packed, batch, and other information. Filled and sealed packages are then cooked
9 under pressure to make the products commercially sterile and give them a long shelf life.

10 28. All three Defendants sell Packaged Seafood in the United States. StarKist, Bumble
11 Bee and Tri-Union all sell packaged tuna, clams, salmon, and sardines. Bumble Bee and Tri-12 Union also sell packaged crabs, mackerel, oysters, and shrimp.

13 29. The United States Packaged Seafood industry generates annual sales of 14 approximately $2.6 billion. Tuna is the largest category within Packaged Seafood, generating 15 estimated annual sales of approximately $1.7 billion.

16 30. Defendants dominated the United States market for Packaged Seafood throughout 17 the Relevant Period. In 2001, Defendants had a combined market share of 85%, which is 18 approximately the same percentage they have today: StarKist 36-40%; Bumble Bee 25%; and Tri-19 Union 20%.

20 31. After decades of growth, demand for Packaged Seafood has been declining since 21 2000. From about 1950 until 2000, packaged tuna was the most popular seafood in the United 22 States. In 1990, the International Trade Commission estimated that Americans consumed between 23 one-half and two-thirds of the global supply of packaged tuna.

24 32. Since the 1990s, health and sustainability concerns, which range from fears of 25 mercury poisoning to fury over dolphin bycatch, have taken their toll. So, too, has a national shift 26 away from packaged seafood.

27
28

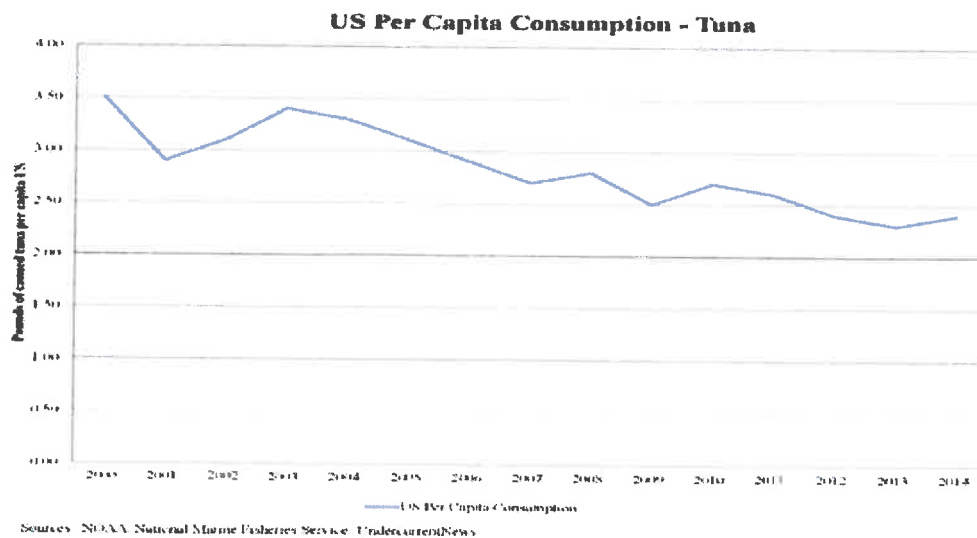

1 33. As a result, domestic consumption of Packaged Seafood has experienced a steady
 2 decline since 2000 (see Figure 1 below). Yet, the prices of Packaged Seafood increased steadily
 3 from 2000 to 2015.

16 34. In particular, packaged tuna saw a steady decline in U.S. per capita consumption
 17 from 3.5 to 2.4 pounds per person per annum between 2000 and 2014 (see Figure 2 below).

1 35. However, since 2005, the price of packaged tuna has skyrocketed (see Figure 3 2 below).

3 Figure 3

15 36. In a competitive environment, a decline in demand for a product will normally
16 lead to a decline in the price of that product. However, because Defendants controlled the market
17 and agreed with each other to restrict capacity, allocate customers, and fix the prices of Packaged
18 Seafood, the prices of Packaged Seafood were intentionally and collaboratively set at artificially
19 high levels throughout the Relevant Period.

20 37. These price increases since the beginning of 2000 were a direct result of 21 Defendants' conspiracy to restrict capacity, allocate customers, and fix the prices of Packaged
22 Seafood in the United States. As a result, Plaintiff paid artificially inflated prices for Packaged 23 Seafood purchased from the Defendants.

24 B. Defendants' Anticompetitive Conspiracy

25 38. Beginning at least as early as January 2000 and continuing to the present,
26 Defendants Tri-Union, Bumble Bee, and StarKist participated together in anticompetitive
27 communications, including telephone calls (sometimes multiple times a day) and frequent face-28 to-face meetings at pre-arranged locations, including hotels and restaurants. During these meetings and telephone calls, Defendants shared sensitive business information, and entered into

1 agreements to fix, raise, stabilize, and maintain prices of Packaged Seafood sold to customers in
2 the United States.

3 39. Senior executives of the three companies met at least twice a year.

4 40. At other times, top executives regularly discussed prices and shared sensitive 5 customer information.

6 41. Throughout the Relevant Period, Defendants communicated regularly by telephone
7 to discuss prices and sensitive customer information. For example, during at least one telephone
8 conversation between Bumble Bee and Starkist executives, Starkist informed Bumble Bee that 9 StarKist and Tri-Union were in agreement to raise prices.

10 42. As part of the conspiracy, Defendants discussed pricing, and agreed to coordinate 11 the timing and amount of price increases for Packaged Seafood sold to customers in the United 12 States. Defendants also agreed to restrict capacity and allocate customers.

13 43. Defendants agreed to exchange, and did exchange, information during their 14 telephone conversations and meetings for the purpose of monitoring and enforcing adherence to 15 their agreements.

16 44. Defendants had ample opportunities for collusion. Defendants routinely attended
17 trade shows and conferences during which they discussed Packaged Seafood pricing and other 18 aspects of their conspiracy. Defendants also collaborated on many projects during the Relevant
19 Period, including their joint “Tuna the Wonderfish” advertising campaign and the International 20 Seafood Sustainability Foundation.

21 45. The “Tuna the Wonderfish” advertising campaign, which ran from early 2011
22 through early 2012, was designed to stem the tide of declining sales of Packaged Seafood in the 23 United States. The “Tuna the Wonderfish” campaign gave Defendants ample opportunity to 24 conspire to raise and fix Packaged Seafood prices. Although the campaign was unsuccessful in 25 boosting consumption, Defendants nonetheless jointly implemented a price increase in 2012 in 26 the face of falling demand.

27 46. Defendants Bumble Bee and Tri-Union also co-operate on seafood processing and 28 packaging. Bumble Bee co-packs for the West Coast for Tri-Union in Bumble Bee’s Santa Fe

1 Springs, California plant, while Tri-Union returns the favor for the East Coast at its Lyons,
2 Georgia plant.

3 THE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE UNITED STATES
4 PACKAGED SEAFOOD MARKET ARE CONDUCTIVE TO COLLUSION

5 47. The structure and characteristics of the Packaged Seafood market in the United 6 States are conducive to a price-fixing agreement.

7 48. Packaged Seafood is a commodity product that is sold directly to retail chains and 8 through grocery wholesalers and distributors, such as Plaintiff. Packaged Seafood varieties have 9 similar shelf life, contain similar amounts of seafood, and are marketed in cans, pouches, and 10 cups. Therefore, purchasers of Packaged Seafood are more likely to be influenced by price when 11 making a purchasing decision.

12 49. There are substantial barriers that preclude, or reduce, entry into the Packaged
13 Seafood market, including high start-up costs, manufacturing expertise, access to raw materials, 14 and access to distribution channels. Therefore, Defendants could collectively raise prices without 15 fear of being undercut by new entrants.

16 50. Purchasers routinely source their Packaged Seafood from one of the three 17 Defendants. As a result, Defendants dominate the United States Packaged Seafood market.

18 51. Defendants possessed significant market power to raise prices for Packaged 19 Seafood above competitive levels in the United States.

20 52. There are no economically reasonable substitutes for Packaged Seafood.
21 Alternative seafood, such as frozen seafood or fresh seafood, do not have commensurate shelf
22 lives and require preparation, such as cooking, before they can be consumed.

23 THE DOJ INVESTIGATION

24 53. The San Francisco office of the antitrust division of the United States Department 25 of Justice (“DOJ”) is conducting an investigation into anticompetitive practices in the United 26 States Packaged Seafood industry. The DOJ has convened a grand jury. Two of the three largest 27 United States Packaged Seafood manufacturers, Tri-Union and Bumble Bee, have publicly 28 confirmed receipt of grand jury subpoenas.

1           54.     On July 23, 2015, Thai Union confirmed that its subsidiary, “Tri-Union Seafoods
2 LLC, operating in the United States under the brand Chicken of the Sea ha[d] received a
3 subpoena requiring the production of relevant information to the DOJ,” and that “Chicken of the 4 Sea is cooperating fully with the investigation.”

5           55.     As an indication of the seriousness of the DOJ’s investigation, Thai Union, on 6 July 17, 2015, announced that it had suspended a planned public offering. The company stated 7 that it wanted additional clarity on this investigation before proceeding with the public offering.
8 Thai Union has notified the Securities and Exchange Commission of the suspension.

9           56.     On July 23, 2015, Bumble Bee acknowledged receipt of a grand jury subpoena,
10 stating, “The Company did receive a grand jury subpoena relating to a US Department of Justice 11 investigation into potential antitrust violations in the packaged seafood industry. The Company is 12 cooperating fully with the investigation.”

13           57.     StarKist has not announced whether it received a grand jury subpoena. Upon
14 information and belief, StarKist applied for admittance into the DOJ’s corporate leniency
15 program to report Defendants’ price-fixing activity and other anticompetitive conduct violative of 16 the Sherman Act § 1 in the United States Packaged Seafood market.

17           58.     Upon information and belief, StarKist has been accepted into the DOJ corporate 18 leniency program.

19                           PLAINTIFF SUFFERED ANTITRUST INJURY

20           59.     Defendants’ conspiracy had the following effects, among others:

21                   a.     Price competition has been restrained or eliminated with respect to 22 Packaged Seafood; and

23                   b.     The prices of Packaged Seafood have been fixed, raised, maintained, or 24 stabilized at artificially inflated levels.

25           60.     During the Relevant Period, Defendants charged supra-competitive prices for 26 Packaged Seafood sold to Plaintiff. By reason of Defendants’ alleged violations of the antitrust 27 laws, Plaintiff has sustained injury to its businesses or property, having paid higher prices for 28 Packaged Seafood than it would have paid absent Defendants’ alleged illegal contract,

1 combination, or conspiracy, and, as a result, has suffered damages in an amount to be determined.
2 This is an antitrust injury of the type the antitrust laws were meant to punish and prevent.

3 FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT AND
4 TOLLING OF THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

5 61. Throughout the Relevant Period, Defendants affirmatively and fraudulently
6 concealed their unlawful conduct from discovery by Plaintiff.

7 62. Plaintiff did not discover, and could not have discovered through the exercise of 8 reasonable diligence, which it, in fact, exercised, the existence of the conspiracy and Defendants'
9 and their co-conspirators' involvement in the conspiracy until July 23, 2015, when the DOJ's 10 investigations first became public.

11 63. Because the conspiracy was actively concealed until July 23, 2015, Plaintiff was 12 unaware of Defendants' and their co-conspirators' unlawful conduct, and did not know that it was 13 paying artificially high prices for Packaged Seafood.

14 64. The affirmative acts of Defendants and their co-conspirators, including acts in 15 furtherance of the conspiracy, were wrongfully concealed and carried out in a manner that 16 precluded detection.

17 65. Defendants and their co-conspirators agreed among themselves not to discuss 18 publicly, or otherwise reveal, the nature and substance of the acts and communications in 19 furtherance of their illegal conspiracy.

20 66. Defendants and their co-conspirators met and communicated secretly concerning 21 the pricing and marketing of Packaged Seafood as to avoid detection.

22 67. Plaintiff could not have discovered the alleged conspiracy at an earlier date by the 23 exercise of reasonable diligence because of the deceptive practices and secrecy techniques
24 employed by Defendants and their co-conspirators to avoid detection of, and fraudulently
25 conceal, their contract, conspiracy, or combination. Defendants' conspiracy was fraudulently 26 concealed by various means and methods, including, but not limited to, secret meetings, 27 misrepresentations to customers, and surreptitious communications among Defendants and their 28

1 co-conspirators via telephone or in in-person meetings in order to prevent the existence of written 2 records.

3 68. Because the alleged conspiracy was affirmatively concealed by Defendants and 4 their co-conspirators until July 23, 2015, Plaintiff had no knowledge of the alleged conspiracy or 5 any facts or information that would have caused a reasonably diligent person to investigate
6 whether a conspiracy existed.

7 69. None of the facts or information available to Plaintiff prior to July 23, 2015, if 8 investigated with reasonable diligence, could or would have led to the discovery of the conspiracy
9 prior to July 23, 2015.

10 70. As a result of Defendants' and their co-conspirators' fraudulent concealment of the 11 conspiracy, the running of any statute of limitations has been tolled with respect to Plaintiff's
12 claims of anticompetitive conduct alleged in this Complaint.

13 COUNT I

14 VIOLATION OF THE SHERMAN ACT § 1

15 71. Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into, and engaged in, a contract, 16 combination, or conspiracy in unreasonable restraint of trade in violation of Section 1 of the 17 Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

18 72. Defendants' anticompetitive acts were intentionally directed at the United States
19 Packaged Seafood market, and had a substantial and foreseeable effect on interstate commerce by 20 raising and fixing Packaged Seafood prices throughout the United States.

21 73. The contract, combination, or conspiracy had the following direct, substantial, and 22 reasonably foreseeable effects upon commerce in the United States and upon import commerce:

23 a. Prices charged to, and paid by, Plaintiff for Packaged Seafood were 24 artificially raised, fixed, maintained, or stabilized at supra-competitive levels;

25 b. Plaintiff has been deprived of the benefits of free, open, and unrestricted 26 competition in the United States Packaged Seafood market; and

27 c. Competition in establishing the prices paid for Packaged Seafood has been 28 unlawfully restrained, suppressed, or eliminated.
